SPEAKERS TELL OF "WAR EXPERIENCES"

HUGH RIDLON AND MAJOR YATES TELL INTERESTING TALES AT TWILIGHT CLUB.

TALKS ARE THRILLING

Modern War Vividly Described by Two Men Who Have Been "Over There."

Modern warfare on land and in the air was vividly described to members of the Twilight club at their second meeting of the season at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. "War Experiences," which was the subject for the evening, was ably discussed by Hugh O. T. Ridlon, a Chicago boy who served in the Foreign Legion in the trenches and in the Franco-American flying corps for eight months, and by Major C. R. Yates of the Essex Regiment of England, who has seen three years of service in the western front.

Over two hundred members and invited guests enjoyed the evening's program, which proved to be one of the most interesting and enjoyable entertainments in some time. After a delicious supper, Fred L. Clemens, leader for the evening, introduced Ray Melrose, who gave a talk appealing to everyone to push the "war" campaign to its logical conclusion. Clemens then introduced Hugh Ridlon, the first speaker on the program.

Major Yates opened his talk with a story written by one of his comrades while "over there," entitled "Vive la France!" He continued: "A lot of people are of the opinion that we are sending them over to fight our own country's battle against autocracy."

"I was up in the clouds one day on patrol duty. A friend of mine was also up, and as there was not much doing, we amused ourselves by playing tag around the clouds, when suddenly three Boche aeroplanes appeared. We immediately started after them and in some manner I managed to be above one of them and in passing over the wheels of his machine cut the enemy aeroplane in two. It was a wonderful sight to see the two parts of the plane falling to the ground with 'Fritz' in the middle."

"I was in the trenches with the Foreign Legion for a short time before I entered aviation, and I consider this experience the greatest a man can have. Never have I been so proud of my country as I am now when I know that our men are fighting at the front. I consider that there is only one way to end this war and that is a victory for the allies with unconditional peace."

When asked by one member after he had finished his talk what the word Boche really meant, Ridlon replied, "Boche is the most despicable and contemptible thing you can think of. The Boches were almost incredible and listeners were horrified when told of some of the acts committed by the Hun."

Major Yates was next introduced and delivered a thrilling address, telling of his three years' service with the Essex Regiment in France. He said, in part, of our charges, we went over the top, through the barbed wire entanglements of the Germans and into their first line trenches. They immediately showed the white flag and yelled, 'Have mercy!' He hesitated for a minute, when suddenly a company of Hunns came rushing up from the second line trenches, swooped down upon us and we were forced to retreat. I ask you, can you trust the brutes! They have broken every international law and consider as nothing the flag of truce—they merely use it as a ruse."

"I had been at the front only a brief time when I received a shrapnel wound in my knee and was taken back to a London hospital. I had been there only a short time when received a call ordering me to report to my command again in France. When I was back once more with my regiment, we received orders one day to proceed at once to a small French village at the front, sixty miles away."

We were transported in omnibuses and autos and finally reached our destination. It was raining, and the town was so packed with troops that we had to camp in the fields. There were rumors of battle in camp and we received orders to move to the first line trenches at three o'clock the next morning."

"At twelve o'clock the next night our guns started firing and were answered by the Germans. There was no sleep for us that night with such terrific noise. Seven o'clock that morning had been set as the time for an attack, so promptly at that time we went over the top, through our own barbed wire entanglements, and managed to get through those of the Germans and hopped into their first line trenches. We may as well lose our lives as keep smashing right through to the second line of defense. It was kill, kill, kill, all the way! We dug ourselves in right in front of the German's second line trenches and there our position was secured, when we received orders to fall back a mile and a half so that we would not be separated from our other units."

"When this order was given, my men came to me with tears in their eyes and begged me to keep the position we had gained."

"Six hours later we saw masses of Boches advancing towards us. They were armed with machine guns. Our big guns immediately opened fire and we could see the shells exploding among them and moving them down right and left. But still they came on. They came so close to our front line trenches that I remember of shooting one of them and having him fall on me."

"German reports of the battle said that three hundred men were lost in the encounter, but upon looking at the battlefield the next day, I would not be over-estimating the number. I said there were twenty thousand men in the line. Their bodies were piled in masses three feet high and presented a horrible sight."

"The effect of the battle on two of our officers was pitiful. Their minds were turned and owing to the tremendous strain. One of them ran out stumbling among the dead Germans, yelling at them to get up and follow him in an attack. He died. The other was shot in the head as he saw one of your comrades lose his mind and do such acts as this."

"The following year I was placed in charge of the job of mining a secret shaft behind our lines and had extended it underground towards the German trenches about fifty feet. These tunnels, on each side, they are cut out about two feet wide and four feet high, so in order to pass through them it is necessary to crawl on your hands and knees."

"One of my lieutenants and I were sitting at the end of one of these galleries one day and by the light of a torch were discussing different plans, when we heard several heavy feet. We looked up and saw a German soldier. We hid the torch and he came to a few feet away. We heard that noise came from the Germans who were also mining from their side, so we immediately planned to blow up their shafts."

"What about the hundred pounds of high explosives in the end of one of our galleries and banded it for fifty feet with sand bags so that the explosion would have to go the other direction. At two o'clock the next morning the signal was given and the charge was ignited. The ground rolled and shook and dirt was thrown into a height of two hundred feet. We crawled over to look at the result and found a crater eighty feet in diameter and thirty feet deep had been formed. Thus we saved our own trenches from being mined by the Hunns."

"I experienced a gas attack later that year while in charge of four bomb depots. We were in the first trenches one afternoon when we saw a huge gas wave coming from the German line. We immediately put on our gas masks, when all of a sudden the wind changed and the gas swept back toward the enemy trenches. We went over the top and made an attack before the big wave, endeavoring to blow up the German bomb depots. We succeeded in demolishing two of them, but in order to get the third I had to throw away my gas mask."

"I was successful in blowing up the third one, but after that I remembered nothing. When I came to, two hours later, I found that I had been saved and my life had been saved. I was in one of our field hospitals. When I had sufficiently recovered I was sent back to London, where I lay in a hospital, totally blind, for five weeks."

Major Yates closed his stirring address with an appeal to the members to do all in their power to raise the funds for the work of the Y. M. C. A. in the war camps. He stated that he considered the Y. M. C. A. indispensable and most necessary for the success of the allied troops, and that if our boys are to hold their own, we must not deny them the only pleasure they have."

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF STATE DAIRYMEN WILL BE HELD HERE

Opening Session of Annual Convention Will Be Held on Tuesday, November 20—Excellent Program Arranged.

With its entire program largely given over to the consideration of a subject of special interest to producers and consumers—that of milk production and marketing—the forty-sixth annual convention of the Wisconsin Dairymen's association will be held in this city November 20-22.

Officers of the association are confident that the program for this year, because of its emergency nature, will bring out more than the usual number of dairy food producers loyal and eager to increase and improve their united output.

Since their introduction into the state ten years ago, the dairymen's association has had direct charge of the cow-testing organizations. There are now eighty-three such associations in the state, which number exceeds that of any other state. Over 100 herds are being tested, 100 cows for about 2,500 individual dairymen.

In addition to many well known state authorities the convention will be addressed by E. S. Johnson, director of agriculture for Vermont; R. C. Reed of the Michigan Milk Producers' association, and J. B. Bain of the United States department of agriculture.

A special session of the convention is to be given over to the consideration of the situation arising out of the controversy in the supplying of milk to Chicago and Milwaukee. Assistant Attorney General Walter Drew will meet the producers at that time for the purpose of holding a conference on the subject, "The Law and the Milk Situation."

The annual address, at the first session, by President Math. Michaels of Peebles, will be one of the first of a series of excellent and interesting talks by the biggest men in the dairy industry. Michaels, owner of Peebles, Wis. Viewed as a leader of the dairy revolutionists, for they feed no grain to cattle or horses, cure their alfalfa in the mow, and have adopted other unusual farm practices, yet the dairy industry is making the Guernsey advanced register with ease, the young stock are growing, and the farm produces a larger income than 999 farms out of a million. Michaels is a dairyman of the future. The farm home is modern, is equipped with running water and plumbing, has its own lighting and heating system, and possesses a home-built, iceless refrigerator. The house is cooled with coils through which passes all the water used in the house and at the barns.

DISCUSS CONDITION OF WOMEN OF INDIA

Loani Band Holds Interesting Lesson at Church Last Evening.

An interesting lesson on the "Condition of Women in India" was conducted by Mrs. Fred Sutherland, at the meeting of the Loani Band at the Congregational church last evening. The speaker, who is a native of India, was a test of its civilization. She described the depth of ignorance of the people, and the inability of the women to read and write. She spoke of the suffering there, especially among the women for lack of doctors and nurses, and said that the crying need was for the medical missionaries. Miss Sutherland also gave an account of the missionary work of Sarah Hooker Capron, who was at the head of the missionary field in Madras, India, for many years. She mentioned several worthy centers of education, among them being a girls' school conducted by Miss Hoxie at Bombay, and also a school for the blind at Madras. The very tangible results accomplished by Dr. Karmakar and wife, both being natives of India, was mentioned. The speaker also described the "Pilgrimage of Prayer," undertaken among the little villages of England, to keep up the spirit of reverence among the women during the war experiences.

Also mentioned the work for the Y. M. C. A., soon to be undertaken as a nationwide movement.

Mrs. Lowth gave a detailed report of the progress of the Federated Missions held during the last week in the city. Miss Shawan sang very sweetly, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," Miss Bennett playing her accompaniment. The regular business of the band was transacted with the officials, Mrs. Hough, presiding, and Miss Ryckman giving the financial report.

A delicious supper was served under the direction of Mrs. N. Jones and Mrs. H. W. Adams, assisted by some of the younger ladies of the society.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Janesville Gazette: I wish to say a few words in regard to the ungentlemanly conduct of some of our American soldiers while returning to camp.

At a recent Sunday evening the ten o'clock interurban car was late in leaving Janesville. A large number of soldier boys were waiting. When the cars arrived the boys pushed their way through the crowd, rushed onto the car and occupied the seats, making it necessary for a lot of ladies to stand in the aisles. Among them a young mother who was accompanied by her fifteen months old baby all the way to Beloit where she left the car. When the baby cried these soldiers mocked and jeered him. It seems to me that such rude behavior is a shame and disgrace to our manhood.

It is to be hoped that this is not typical of the real American soldier. "A MILTON RESIDENT."

MAJOR YATES GIVES TALK TO HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

COMPLETE JURY FOR HARTIN MURDER CASE

Twelve Men Finally Chosen to Try Fred Hartin, Alleged Murderer, Before Judge Grimm.

After over two hours of close questioning by the defending attorneys, and after the jury had been sworn in, Judge Grimm, a jury was finally chosen late this morning. The jury which was only completed after an additional two hours of questioning, is composed of the following men: Frank Davis, F. H. Farnsworth, C. W. Burkemeyer, F. N. Perry, W. L. Paul, Robert E. Bugger, John E. Kewan, R. C. Shaw, H. Hemmingsway, J. H. Knight, Starr Atwood, and T. C. Randall.

Immediately after the selection of the jury was finished, Attorney T. Woolsey, counsel for the defense, who was assisted in the suit by Attorney M. O. Monat, instructed the jurors in the facts of the case. Mr. Woolsey pointed out that the testimony of the defense was that Elmer Moffet, of Beloit, who is one of the state's most important witnesses, is the real culprit, and not Hartin. After Krause had been murdered November 18, 1916, by Mr. Woolsey alleged that Moffet endeavored to shift the guilt of the crime on Hartin. Hartin, it was said, listened to poor advice and seeing that Moffet was succeeding in his attempt, left Beloit.

Mr. Woolsey was most emphatic in his statement that Hartin should never have left Beloit, that he did the wrong thing by doing so, and that if he had stayed and faced trial, he would now be a free man. Hartin, in getting out of Beloit, took into consideration the fact that he had just been released from the county jail, and the fact of things at that time would no doubt make the law go hard with him.

District Attorney Dunwiddie, who has the assistance of Attorney C. O. Ross, of Beloit, presented the state's side of the case in a most forceful manner at the afternoon session which began at two o'clock.

Replaces Human Sacrifice. The meaning of the rite of "breaking the bottle" at the launching of ships was originally nothing short of sacrifice. Building a town or launching a ship were solemn matters to our forefathers, not to be done without devoting a life to propitiate the gods. Our world civilization no longer dares to sacrifice a slave or a prisoner on such occasions, and therefore we break the bottle, signifying the taking of a man's life.

dry brush burn the ground into a tinder-box. You can go over a camp fire and stamp out every visible spark, and yet there will be fire left that will of itself burn along to highly inflammable material. The only safe way is to give a camp fire a thorough soaking with water.

This loss of timber by fires incurs the cost of lumber and is one cause of the high cost of building houses. Every man who enters the woods this fall should keep this in mind.

Also don't fire your gun every time you hear or see something move in the bushes. With the present ratio between game and sportsmen, the chances are even that it is another hunter. If you must shoot this kind of game, enlist in the army.

EXTRAVAGANCE IN WAR TIME.

Some people deprecate the talk of economy in war times, on the ground that it will upraise business. They think if people stop buying luxuries, great numbers of the people will be out of work.

Yet it seems a false foundation for success in war, that we must keep throwing away money on needless extravagances. A policy of economy would of course work temporary hardship. But with the tremendous demand for all kinds of labor, it is difficult to conceive that people willing to work would be idle for any length of time.

The war has got to be financed out of the savings of the people. The more we can buy Liberty bonds out of the savings we are able to make as we go along, the easier the war will come. The extravagances in which so many people indulge seem almost unimportant in this crisis. It is people's timidity at this crisis, the difficulty of financing this war will be greatly relieved.

These musicians that won't play the Star Spangled Banner persist in remaining in a country where they get paid for playing the Star Spangled Banner. They are Spangled Banner schools and freedom.

With all these oil stoves exploding in the army camps, there is some one hanging around who should be made to take his seat on those stoves and he needn't have his trousers on either.

The New York Herald asks the girls to refuse treats of candy and ice cream so as to save sugar. No objection is heard from the general run of impecunious suitors.

The Austrians, Russians and Italians have successfully competed for the long distance running record, but the Americans have decided not to enter for this event.

It is claimed the farmers didn't subscribe to Liberty bonds as they should. But wait until the long winter evenings when Uncle Rousen has time to read the papers.

After being put on a government license, the food dealers begin to realize that there are important questions pending other than whether they get rich or not.

Having always opposed appropriations for munitions of war, many people are now kicking because it costs so much to provide them all in a hurry.

Some people won't sign the food pledge card because they think they have displayed their patriotism sufficiently by showing the American flag.

After starting a rumor that the allies are going to desert Russia, the Germans start another that Russia is going to desert the allies.

If those suspected spies in the army and navy department affirm their innocence, offer them sauerkraut and see if they can refuse it.

Shortage of pennies reported in Janesville. Probably the contribution boxes will feel it before the penny in the slot machines.

The allies have now proceeded very carefully to double lock the Italian door after a very valuable horse has been stolen.

The boys' theory of food saving is to put it right down instantly to keep it from spoiling.

Up to date the food profiteers haven't decided whether to pay a fine or go to jail.

Among the places where you can hear that traditional pin drop is the Russian front.

which resulted disastrously to at least one person, Old Obed Hamberg, of Utica.

Obed has a lamp chimney which was twenty-eight years old and for several years he had used it as an trumpet. It was claimed by Obed that no one could break his lamp chimney, but one night recently he went to hear an equal suffrage campaign speech. He got into a front seat and fastened the lamp chimney to his ear.

He was holding the chimney and was nodding assent to everything the feminine orator said until she screamed: "Down with the tyrants!" and the concussion broke the lamp chimney into forty-seven pieces. Obed is now against the idea of votes for women and he voted "No."

THE GOLD GIVERS.
Oh, some shall stand in glory's light when all the strife is done.
And some shall stand in glory's light when all the strife is done.
For truth I gave my oil!
But shall I stand in silence then and hear the stories brave
For I must answer at the last that gold is all I gave.

When all this age shall pass away, and silence are the guns
When sweethearts join their loves again, and mothers kiss their sons,
When brave unto the brave return, and all they did is told,
How proud my gift shall seem, when all I gave is gold.

When we are asked what did you then when all the world was red,
And some shall say, "I fell in France," and some, "I mourned my dead;
With all the brave assembled there, how trivial our lives shall seem who had but gold to give.

Whitewater News.

Whitewater, Wis., Nov. 14.—The body of Miss Jemmy Billett was found lying on the floor of her home in East Ford street, yesterday morning, and it is thought she must have been dead forty-eight hours, before being discovered. Miss Billett lived alone and it was her custom to go out work by the day. Not having been seen Sunday or Monday about the house, aroused the suspicion of the neighbors, who, upon looking in the window, saw her lying on the floor. They were not able to gain admission so word was sent to chief of police McLane, who with C. M. Williams and Dr. Dyke, forced an entrance and found that she had been dead some time. An autopsy was performed in the afternoon by Drs. Dunn and Dyke and the cause of the death was given as thrombi, blood obstructing the outlet of the heart.

Miss Billett was sixty-one years of age and lived alone many years. She went out working by the day, leaving at night, and returning home in the morning. A routine sum of money was found in the home, showing her ability to save. Indications showed that the body had been dead for forty-eight hours, and death must have occurred Sunday morning. HALF OF Y. M. C. A. FUND WAS REPORTED

Tremendous Amount of Work Will Still Have to Be Done to Make Janesville's Quota.

At the first "Get-together-lunch" of the Y. M. C. A. Recreation fund drive at the Y. M. C. A. building, the team captains reported that for the three days' drive more than one-half of Janesville's quota was accounted for and that the drive was more than half of their territory.

After the luncheon Mr. Matheson spoke to the men in regard to the size of the subscription and the attitude of the subscribers who could afford more just to get rid of it. We must get a larger subscription if we intend to put the Janesville Y. M. C. A. recreation fund drive on a par with the drive in the other cities. This brought up when the total of the three days' drive was seen and brought out the fact that the men would have to put tremendous energy into the drive if they were to bring Janesville's quota "over the top."

Charles Muggleton, of the executive committee, also spoke of the size of the subscription and the attitude of the subscribers who could afford more just to get rid of it. We must get a larger subscription if we intend to put the Janesville Y. M. C. A. recreation fund drive on a par with the drive in the other cities. This brought up when the total of the three days' drive was seen and brought out the fact that the men would have to put tremendous energy into the drive if they were to bring Janesville's quota "over the top."

The following is the standing of each team up to Wednesday noon: Team number one, Captain Cunningham, $532.50; team number two, Captain H. W. De, $1,025.50; team number three, Captain H. K. Jensen, $2,134; team number four, Captain Wm. McVicar, $580.50; Factory Division, Captain A. J. Gibbons, $2,000; Boys' Division, Captain H. W. De, $1,025.50; Women's Division, Captain Mrs. S. M. Smith, $518.96. This makes the total $7,688.46.

About forty boys had lunch at the Y. M. C. A. before the teams came, who have put considerable "pep" and enthusiasm in their efforts to put the Y. M. C. A. recreation fund across.

Tomorrow noon the Y. M. C. A. has arranged to have Frederick A. Perry speak. Mr. Perry is a Y. M. C. A. worker who has just returned from the French front and an exceptionally good talk will be heard. This meeting of the public is invited. They have been requested to be at the "Y." quarter of one tomorrow noon.

The final windup of the campaign will be Friday evening when Bishop Samuel Fallows will speak at the Myers Opera House. An exceptional large audience is expected as Bishop Fallows is an interesting speaker with many years of experience, who knows from personal experience what the Y. M. C. A. recreation huts mean to the soldiers.

Members of the county board of supervisors at their first November meeting at the court house yesterday afternoon, took up matters of a routine nature and adjourned until ten thirty this evening.

At the meeting yesterday, the board passed a resolution rejecting the bids of the banks for a loan of $100,000 at one percent interest on the county's money, and calling for a raise of one-half percent. Members were of the opinion that if the banks in Dane county could pay three percent on the deposits, the Rock county banks could pay at least two and one-half percent. The matter will come up again Thursday morning at eleven o'clock.

At this morning's meeting Supervisor L. M. Nelson, chairman of the committee to regulate the sizes and weights of auto trucks that travel the county roads. At this morning's meeting Supervisor Nelson reported that at that time there was a population of 100 in the asylum and 100 in the poor house.

Mr. Whipple's report showed further that the value of the property on hand at that time was $195,335.00, and that seven thousand dollars worth of products had been produced on the farm during the year and had been consumed. There were over a thousand visitors during that time.

In conclusion, Mr. Whipple asked that the appropriation of fifteen thousand dollars be made from the county fund for the upkeep of the farm and asylum for the current year. The board passed this resolution.

The committee on county tuberculosis sanatoriums was ordered to report Friday afternoon. At this time, several doctors of the city will urge the establishment of a county tuberculosis sanatorium. The morning session adjourned at eleven-thirty to allow the supervisors to attend the dinner given for them, by the Rock County Training school.

After stopping in at a bar with Tudor Smokey, an inn with Langdon Prouts, a school with Byron Pellets, a grocer shop with Woodson Muggor, and a tavern with Sam Dugro, Meera Mann had a sudden unaccountable desire to have his pain read. After looking twice through the business directory, he found the name, "Madame Bessie Swanson, palm reader while you wait, 8 1/2 St. Buddie's lane."

In ten minutes Meera Mann was having his palm read. "You are going to get a new fall suit," concluded Madame Swanson. "I have been needing one for three years!" And he departed homeward with a bright smile.

"Meera," said his wife, "you have been drinking!" "Why—my dear—how can you say that? I can get you no love! Something nice you would like!" "Oh, Meera, a new fall suit!" cried his wife happily.

With a wild laugh, Meera Mann buried his head in a bucket labeled, "In Case of Fire Only."

HIGH SCHOOL CADETS ARE FAST IMPROVING

Members of Both Companies Make Excellent Progress in Execution of the Manual of Arms With New Guns.

Showing intense interest in the drill tactics which were explained to them and a desire to make rapid improvement, the members of the two high school voluntary military companies held their regular drill last evening in the armory of the Sixteenth Separate Company Wisconsin State Guards.

The boys entered the drill work with a firm determination to master the manual of arms before the evening was over and the results of their work show that they were successful.

Due to the lack of sufficient guns to equip both companies the boys were forced to alternate in the use of the rifles. While the one company was drilling with the guns the other boys sat nearby and watched the movements so that they would be able to execute them when their turn came. Although it was but the second time that the boys have had the use of the guns they performed well showing that they are working hard to master the manual of arms.

The entire evening was taken up with the drilling in the manual of arms with the rifles. The usual exercises were dispensed with in order to give the boys the rifle work.

Following the drill the appointments to the two companies from the companies to aid in the securing of the funds for the uniforms were announced. Four men were selected from each company to be members of a committee of which Mr. Bassford, principal of the high school, is chairman. Robert Stevens and Harold Perssons, acting sergeants of the companies, will be members of the committees. On the same committee with Harold Persson will be Roy Keller, Albert School and Howard Gage. On the other committee are Hallett Day, Sidney Bliss and Ranous Schallert.

The committee will confer relative to the staging of the benefit picture at the Majestic theatre on December 4 and 5. Because of the fact that to proceed with the picture will be to purchase suits for the boys one of the best pictures at present being shown on the screen has been secured. The picture "Womanhood" is said to rival the length of its run in the larger cities has proven this fact.

So great is the interest of the boys in the military company that they have asked that a rifle and drum corps be formed. About ten boys have volunteered their services to be members of the corps which will be immediately formed so that practice can be held at the next drill period.

Thursday evening at the armory the Sixteenth Separate company will give a benefit dance. A four piece jazz orchestra has been secured to play on the occasion and a large crowd is expected.

W. C. T. U. WILL MEET THURSDAY AFTERNOON

Meeting Will Be Held in the Presbyterian Church Parlors at Three O'clock—Mrs. Senty Will Speak.

The W. C. T. U. will meet at the Presbyterian church parlors Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. Mrs. Senty will talk of the Y. M. C. A. work in Rock county and the Y. W. C. A. work in the city of Janesville.

The last meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held at the home of Mrs. George Jacobs on South Second street, and Mrs. C. E. Ewing gave a very interesting talk on "Raising the moral standard of man and the transitional qualities pertaining thereto: beginning with the social standards, or right relations with other people, mentioning the change in the methods of treatment of criminals in the nineteenth century, also the treatment of animals, being along the line of progress. She spoke of sobriety also, and stated it isn't until the latter part of the nineteenth century that the entire ban has been placed by Christian people on intoxicating liquors. She also spoke of the position of women, and showed that every nation the standards are advanced by the influence and presence of women in public affairs.

Then truth and integrity of character in countries honesty is practiced in trade simply because it is the best policy, but only in the Christian era has integrity within the individual conscience prevailed.

The meeting was well attended and much enjoyed by all present.

RED CROSS RECEIVES FINISHED ARTICLES

Red Cross Shop Has Received Large Supplies of Warm and Serviceable Articles During the Past Week.

Large supplies of warm and serviceable articles have been coming into the Red Cross shop this week. The Johnstown and Rock Prairie group, represented by 122 pieces; Footville, by 107 pieces, and Orfordville, with 116 pieces. Milton has also sent in a quantity, and Rev. Rogers of Orfordville, has started a group at Hanover for work. Strings of gun-wipers are a by-product of the work rooms and are very acceptable to the soldiers, and many of these strings were sent from these places.

The garments for refugee children are urgently needed abroad, and every woman should feel interested in making at least one outfit. The committee give directions clean, serviceable and warm, therefore they do not wish to accept second-hand garments unless remade. The domestic science department of the high school has turned in many articles which they have made over from material furnished to them.

Children's skirts, and underdrawers can be made from larger garments. The committee are strongly urging women to get out the blanket shawls and donate them for the work. Wool is very scarce abroad, and a shawl is available for usefulness for any age. They are also asking for women to make baby blankets, one yard square, from old comforts and blankets. If washed, dried and bound on the edges they make serviceable articles to sell. A donation of a phone by the Rock County company is gratefully acknowledged by the officials. Also a large clock, which is a convenience, long needed. Through the courtesy of Mr. Koser, an electric iron has been installed, which will often be of use in various departments of work. Also the donation of a sewing machine from Mrs. Martin Dunn is much appreciated.

BOARD MEMBERS ARE GUESTS AT DINNER

Board of Supervisors Were Entertained This Noon by the Rock County School for Training Teachers.

Members of the Rock County Board of Supervisors, who are attending the sessions being held at the county school for training teachers, were entertained this noon by the teachers of the Rock county training school at their sixth annual dinner. The luncheon took place at twelve o'clock and was a very interesting and much appreciated program.

The program follows: Piano selection (a) "Triumphal March," (b) "Alpine Horns," Bellen Thompson, Baldwin, Wis., Model School teacher. Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address," Ella J. Jacobson, Elkhorn, Wis., supervisor of practice teaching. Piano selection, "The Mill Song," Hannah Stuevegen, Orfordville, Wis., senior.

(b) Chorus, (c) The Parade, (d) Whippoorwill, (e) Singing, (f) A Good-bye Song. Song, "Flag Salute," Earl Jensen C. Flag Drill. Fourth Grade D. Song, "Star of Home," 8th Grade. This year the model school consists of nine pupils in the first grade, eight pupils in the second grade, ten pupils in the fourth grade, and twelve pupils in the eighth grade, a total of thirty. The purpose is to make this department as nearly like a country school as possible in organization, management, and instruction. Its great usefulness as a school for observation and practice has been very well demonstrated during the past year and a quarter. The city furnishes the room and the desks, while all of the operating expenses are paid by the training school.

Address, "Some Educational Aspects of the War Situation," Rev. J. A. Melrose, Presbyterian church.

IMMIGRANT CHINESE BUILDS RAILROAD

Thirty years ago when Chin Gee Hee came to America, an immigrant, he had an ambition to build a railroad in his native China. He started business in Seattle with his savings and after prospering returned to China, interesting capital in his project and directing the construction of the road. Graveyards are so many in China that Chin Gee Hee's chief difficulty was in overcoming his countrymen's opposition. railroad station would necessarily pass through many of the burial grounds.

Francella Billington, leading lady for American Film productions, starring the athletic "Billy" Russell, so dearly loves the stars and stripes that she wears them in her bathing costume. During off moments she practices really lives in this suit at the beach at Santa Barbara. The charming Miss Billington is shown in the accompanying picture about to take a plunge in the salt sea waves of the Pacific.

DO YOU REMEMBER? When Francis X. Bushman was doing character parts for Essanay in Chicago, and had not seen the day pass when he was the most popular man of the screen.

When Minnie Maddern Fiske did "Tess of the O'Haverbilles" for the screen and everyone wondered at the termidity of the star in going into the movies? When "Samson" was done by a foreign concern, and the release, a multi-reel with colored photography, was heralded as one of the best things ever?

When you heard that David Wark Griffith was getting ready to produce a tremendous war drama, and wondered who in the deuce Griffith was and what he was going to do? When Louise Fazenda was playing with Max Ascher, and you thought the comedies were particularly bad? When Jack Mulhall was playing in vaudeville in Ned Wayburn's own show, "The Producer"?

The last time you saw Annette Kellermann do her diving act in the two-day? When Eva Tanguay was singing "Samba in 'The Chapone'" and made quite a bit thereby?

Viola Dana was the star in the original stage version of "The Poor Little Rich Girl." Howard Hall was the doctor in the same cast. After several years the two stars themselves playing opposites in the Metro photographs.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty-two years of age and am in love with a girl twenty-one.

(1) I have proposed to her and have been refused, now she does not object to my company, and I love her very much. Do you think she will ever care for me?

(2) On the next farm a young man works, and he is quite a popular young fellow, also, he has a larger income than I have. He has had several dates with this girl. How can I prevent their meeting?

STANLEY.

(1) No one but the girl herself knows whether she will ever care for you or not. Things that are good may be refused you, but if you wait a while and ask her again she may change her mind. If you are enough for her you will be willing to wait a while for her.

(2) There isn't anything you can do to stop the other man from calling on her except to be with her so much that she hasn't any time for him. Do not let her calling on her discourage you if you are sure that you are the man for her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl that lives in the country. I attend school and a young boy sits across the aisle from me; we are in the same class. We used to be the greatest of friends, but I was out all last year and he didn't go to school. He doesn't notice me.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Can you tell me something that will make my hands whiter?

Make a solution of equal parts of strained lemon juice and cologne water. Apply this to your hands after washing them in warm water.

Letters of Two Women

Mazie to Kate.

KERRYVILLE, Kan., the 5th.

Kate Dearest:

Aren't you a regular pig to break off that way and not tell me your news? You know I was only joking when I told you not to write about yourself, but only about me, because I feel so important these days. Don't tell me that you—or are you—can't be? Oh, I'd be glad to hear it, kid, but you'd have a little more to do than the office. You know, I can't see how you find such pleasure in that stupid office, Kate. But you're different. You're queer. I should think you'd be glad to have Paul take care of you. It's such an idea—being married and yet being a working girl, too! Well, cheque a son good!

The pillow slips and nap spoon arrived safely, dears, and brought such delight as you can hardly imagine. Now tell you know my taste, Kist! Those darling rosebuds embroidered so daintily on that cobweb linen! Curtains and his mother and I have been so busy that I haven't had time to write you. You really mean to say you don't know what a nap spoon is, silly? It is a beauty. I have half a suspicion that the costliest of the things has a great appeal to Curt and the in-laws. They do so love "property." Well, you are a dear old darling to send the things, Kist, and I have an actual mist in my eye as I write my thanks.

The days of waiting are horribly alike. I do my housework and sit and sew, thinking of all sorts of things—of myself only a few months back grubbing in the office, of my happiness and disappointments since my marriage, of Curt's bad and good qualities, of my baby to whom I look forward with a perfect passion of love and joy, and of the future, crisscross currents of life in general.

After lunch I dress (now you'd laugh to see my simple outfit—extravagant me, who haven't spent five dollars a month on myself since I came to Kistville!) and usually take a walk downtown afterward to buy a cent's worth of lace at 2½ cents a yard, incidentally giving the various clerks and town loafers a chance to speculate on how long it will be before there's a baby in our house.

Oh, Kate, you've no idea how everybody's affairs in these small towns are mixed up. I'm trying to decide whether his eyes are blue or brown, and speculating on the work his wife has to do to keep him looking so clean and nice.

You know, Kistlets, I never could get religion really under my skin. It is just like arithmetic to me; it simply won't penetrate my hide. And I go on thinking which pattern of lace I shall use on my next baby dress. And when he goes through I am just as good as I was before, and perhaps a wee bit better. I go to church sometimes to please Curt and his family and am involved in my conscience afterward. Hurry and write me your news.

Devotedly,
MAZIE.

BECOMING CLOTHES FOR MEN.

Do men, as a rule, wonder, pick out their clothes with any desire in effort to get something as some thing required by law and the climate and not worth spending any thought upon?

When one sees a man who seems to have considered the question of becomingness in picking out clothes, he stands out so distinctly from the rest, that I suspect the latter is the case.

I know that some of my masculine readers are backing away from the very idea of picking out clothes to become them. They are stigmatizing it as foppish and unmasculine.

Not Against Nature.

I don't think that is necessarily so, by any means.

Nor against nature. The male bird, remember, has the brighter plumage.

Of course I should not like to see a man who put so much stress on clothes that he neglected his business for them, or starve himself for the sake of the things to wear.

But I do not see why an intelligent selection of those clothes which by their color and fit bring out his best points and his worst, is anything a man should be ashamed of.

Why Not Harmonious Clothes?

I like to see a man whose clothes have some distinct relation to his person.

Reviewing the A B C

We are trying to make the head and neck hardening is and how to postpone it as long as possible. So we must go back for a brief review.

Arteriosclerosis is not only hardening of the arteries, but a degeneration or wearing out which involves every other organ and tissue in the body. Take old age, the natural type of arteriosclerosis.

Arteriosclerosis is a degenerative disease, the wrinkled, atrophied skin, the gray hair, the feeble resisting power against infections, the falling memory and other mental functions.

Well, just as the familiar evidences of senile arteriosclerosis indicate general degeneration, so do the manifestations of premature arteriosclerosis.

You Can Wipe Off Superfluous Hairs

"See Them Crinkle Up and Vanish, Leave Skin Gloriously Clean," Says the Screen Favorite, Valeska Suratt.

BY VALESKA SURATT.

WANT to tell you a new way of getting rid of superfluous hairs. It's a new hair cream or a cloth you can rub off with one stroke every superfluous hair as easily as you can wipe off a little spot of dirt.

You should first moisten the hairs with salt solution for a few moments, then every hair, heavy and light, and no matter where it comes from, and ease right off the skin. It's simply wonderful. Try it. It does not harm the skin in any way.

For one dollar you can get from any drug store enough salt solution to last for quite a while.

Every woman should have this splendid article on her dressing table, because it is simple to use, is absolutely safe, and never fails. It is certainly remarkable what a difference is produced on the average face by the removal of even the light hairs.

MISS "A. B. C."—I've seen bald spots all out in two weeks with new hair by using this formula. It makes hair grow almost like a weed, just slowly. I use this myself at home, and you'll have the best hair grower ever known. Get an ounce of beta-quinal from your druggist for fifty cents and mix with a pint of bay rum (or with a half pint each of water and alcohol). Use this frequently, and you will have a head of hair to be proud of.

HAZEL N.—The deep wrinkles on both cheeks can be easily removed as wrinkles on hair. It's one in a shampoo cannot be equalled. You can get even better results for a thorough head-wash by dissolving a teaspoonful of sugar in a half cup of water. For twenty-five cents enough sugar can be secured to last for a dozen or more shampoos.

ROAMER—Your face powder is evidently not fine enough. This is the trouble with a great many of them. I want you to try a powder made after my own formula, of extraordinary fineness, softer than down. Valeska Suratt Face Powder, now sold by all druggists in flesh, white and buff, at fifty cents a box. All my friends rave over it.

MRS. F. A. M.—Blackheads can be removed in a few minutes. Hard to believe, perhaps, but it is true. All you have to do is to rub the background right with powder. Valeska Suratt Face Powder, now sold by all druggists in flesh, white and buff, at fifty cents a box. All my friends rave over it.

Symptoms of More Serious Sickness.

Washington Park, Ill.—"I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female trouble, backache, nervous spells and the blues. My children's loud talking and romping would make me so nervous I could just tear everything to pieces and I would scream over and over and feel so sick that I would not want anyone to talk to me at times. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills restored me to health and I want to thank you for the good they have done me. I have had quite a bit of trouble and worry but it does not affect my youthful looks. My friends say 'Why do you look so young and well?' I owe it all to the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies." Mrs. ROSE STORP, Sage Avenue, Washington Park, Illinois.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free of charge.

King of the Khyber Rifles

A Romance of Adventure
By TALBOT MUNDY

(Copyright by Bobbs-Merrill Company)

"What was that?" asked Saunders, but King was silent again. Conscious of the unaccustomed weight on his left wrist, he moved his arm so that the sleeve drew and he could see the edge of the great gold bracelet Rewa Gunga had given him in Yasmin's name. "Know anything of Rewa Gunga?" he asked suddenly again.

"Not much. I've seen him. I've spoken with him, and I've had to stand impudently from him—twice. I've been tipped off more than once to let him alone because he's her man. He does ticklish errands for her, or so they say. He's what you might call 'known to the police' all right."

They began to approach an age-old palace near the river, and Saunders whispered a password when an armed guard halted them. They were halted again at a gloomy gateway where an officer came out to look them over; by his leave they left the guard and followed him under the arch until their heels rang on stone paving in a big ill-lighted courtyard surrounded by high walls.

There, after a little talk, they left Ismail squatting beside King's big, and Saunders led the way through a modern iron door, into what had once been a royal prince's stables.

In gloom that was only thrown into contrast by a wide-spread row of electric lights, a long line of barred and locked converted horse stalls ran down one side of a lean-to building. All that King could see of the men within was the whites of their eyes. And they did not look friendly.

He had to pass between them and the light, and they could see more of him than he could of them. At the first cell he raised his left hand and made the gold bracelet on his wrist clink against the steel bars.

A moment later he cursed himself, and felt the bracelet with his finger nail. He had made a deep nick in the soft gold. A second later yet he smiled.

"May God be with thee!" boomed a prisoner's voice in Pashtu. "Didn't know that fellow was handcuffed," said Saunders. "Did you hear the ring? They should have been taken off. Leaving his irons on has made him polite, though."

"Where did you arrest them?" King asked when Saunders came to a stand under a light.

"All in one place. At Ali's." "Who and what is Ali?" "That—crimp—procurer—Prussian spy and any other evil thing that takes his fancy! Runs a combination gambling hell and boarding house. Let's 'em run into debt and blackmail 'em. Ali's in the Kaiser's pay—that's known! We'll get him when we want him, but at present he's useful 'as is' for a decoy."

"You wouldn't call these men prosperous, then?" "Not exactly! All is the only spy out of the North who prospers much at present, and even he gets most of his money out of his private business. The they can get away when they've paid him what they owe. Yasmin sends and pays their board and gambling debts, and she's our man, so to speak. She coaxes 'em with a few extra good ones into the bargain. Everybody's fooled—especially the Germans—and excepting, of course, Yasmin and the raj. Nobody ever fooled that woman, nor ever will if my belief goes for anything."

"Um-m-m!" King rubbed his chin. "Know anything of my man Ismail?" "Sure! He's one of Yasmin's pets. She bailed him out of Ali's three years ago and he worships her. It was he who broke the leg and ribs of a purrajah a month or two ago for putting on too much dog in her reception room. He's Ursus out of 'Quo Vadis'! He's dog, desperado, stalling horse and keeper of the queen's secrets!"

"Then why do you suppose she passed him along to me?" asked King. "Dunno! This is your little mystery, not mine!"

"Glad you appreciate that! Do me a favor, will you?" "Anything in reason." "Get the keys to all these cells—send 'em in here to me by Ismail—and leave me in here alone!"

Saunders whistled and wiped sweat from his glistening face, for in spite of windows wide open to the courtyard it was hotter than a furnace room. "Mayn't I have you thrown into a den of tigers?" he asked. "Or a nest of cobras? Or get the fiery furnace ready? That 'God be with thee' stuff is habit—they say it with unctuous before they knife a man!"

"I'll be careful, then," King chuckled; and it is a fact that few men can argue with him when he laughs quietly in that way. "Send me in the keys, like a good chap."

So Saunders went, glad enough to get into the outer air. The instant the door slammed King continued down the line with his left wrist held high so that the occupant of each cell in turn could see the bracelet.

"May God be with thee!" came the instant greeting from each cell until down toward the further end. The occupants of the last six cells were silent. He had scarcely finished doing that when Ismail came in, slamming the great iron door behind him, jangling a bunch of keys and looking more than ever like somebody out of the Old Testament.

"Open every door except those whose numbers I have rubbed out!" King ordered him. Ismail proceeded to obey as if that were the least improbable order in all the world. It took him two minutes to select the pass-key and determine how it worked, then the doors flew open one after another in quick succession.

"Come out!" he growled. "Come out!—Come out!" although King had not ordered that.

King went and stood under the center light with his left arm barred. The prisoners emerging like dead men out of tombs, blinked at the bright light—saw him—then the bracelet—and saluted.

"May God be with thee!" growled each of them. They stood still then, awaiting fresh developments. It did not seem to occur to any one of them as strange that a British officer in khaki uniform should be sporting Yasmin's talisman; the thing was apparently sufficient explanation in itself.

"Ye all know this?" he asked, holding up his wrist. "Whose is this?" "Hers!" The answer was monosyllabic and instant from all thirty throats.

King lit a cheroot and made mental note of the wisdom of referring to her by pronoun, not by name.

In turn, every one of them flung by knelt reverently and kissed the bracelet!

"Saw ye ever a hillman do that before?" asked Ismail. "They will obey thee! Have no fear!"

"Then come!" ordered King, turning his back confidently on thirty savages whom Saunders, for instance, would have preferred to drive in front of him, after first seeing them handcuffed.

"Each lock has a key, but some keys fit all locks," says the Eastern proverb. King has been chosen for many ticklish errands in his time, and Saunders is still in Delhi.

The prisoners were left squatting under the eyes and bayonets of a very suspicious prison guard, who made no secret of being ready for all conceivable emergencies. One enthusiast drew the cartridge out of his breech chamber and licked it at intervals of a minute or two, to the very great interest of the hillmen, who memorized every detail that by any stretch of imagination might be expected to improve their own shooting when they should get home again.

King found his way on foot through a maze of streets to a place where he was admitted through one door after another by sentries who saluted when he had whispered to them. He ended by sitting on the end of the bed of a gray-headed man who owns three titles and whose word is law between the borders of a province. To him he talked as one schoolboy to a bigger one, because the gray-haired man had understanding, and hence sympathy.

"I don't envy you!" said he under the sheet. "There's the release for your prisoners. Take it—and take them! Whatever possessed you to want such a gift?"

"Well, sir—first place, she doesn't want to seem to be connected with me. Second place, she has left Delhi—and she did not mean to leave those men. Third place, if those thirty men had been anything but her particular pet gang they'd either have been over the border or else in jail before now—just like all the others. For some reason that I don't pretend to understand, she promised 'em more than she has been able to perform. So I provide performance. She gets the credit for it. I get a pretty good personal following at least as far as up the Khyber! Q. E. D., sir!"

The man in bed nodded. "Not bad," he said.

"Didn't she make some effort to get those men away from Ali's?" King asked him. "I mean, didn't she try to get them dry-nursed by the sarkar in some way?"

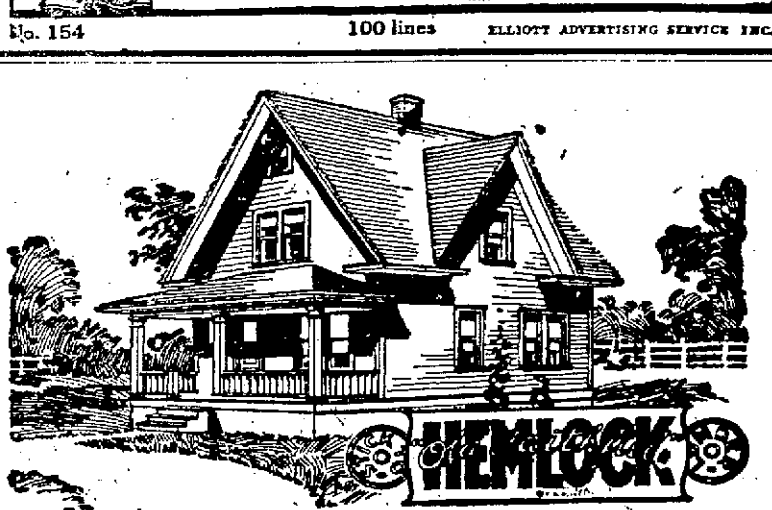

"Yes," she said. But she wanted them arrested and locked up at a moment when the jails were all crowded. She must have known our fix. She shouldn't have asked."

King smiled. "Perfectly good opportunity for me, sir!" he said cheerfully.

Diet, Exercise or Death

An eminent medical authority writes that most city folk die of a thickening of the arteries or of kidney disease. The kidneys become clogged, do not filter the poisons from the blood, and one trouble follows another, high blood pressure damages the heart, arteries and kidneys. Usually its danger signals are backache, pain here or there, swollen feet or ankles, rheumatic twinges or spots appearing before the eyes. The best remedy is this: Eat meat, but once a day, or not at all. Plenty of outdoor exercise, and drink pure water frequently. Before meals take Auric, the great uric acid neutralizer, obtainable at drug stores. When you have dizziness, chills or sweating, worry, or dragging pains in back, try this wonderful remedy: uric acid, which Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., discovered and named Auric. Many times more potent than lithia, dissolves uric acid as hot water does sugar.

La Crosse, Wis.—"Some years ago I was in a terribly run-down condition. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it built me up in fine shape and cured me of the weakness which had so long troubled me. I am glad to commend this medicine."—Mrs. Chas. Horn, 1827 S. 4th Street.

Dinner Stories

"Sir," said the young man, entering the office. "I sent you a communication yesterday."

"Indeed!" said the grim-faced man. "Well, Mr. Prater, I thought perhaps you might give me a reply to my request, and—"

"Wait a minute," said Mr. Prater. "I'll get the communication."

"No, sir, I—I—"

"Then you are the one that left this bill for $250 for hats for my daughter?"

"No, sir. My commu—"

"Then it must be this for $35 for shoes?"

"No, sir. My note was one asking if I might have your daughter's hand."

"You want to marry her?" gasped Mr. Prater. Then turning over the pile of bills, he urged: "Take her, young man! I don't know your name, but take her quickly! She's talking about doing some more shopping!"

Travelers who enjoy reading on a railway journey will appreciate this story.

WISCONSIN WOM IN

Fond du Lac, Wis.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a very good medicine. When I was a girl going to school I got all run down and weak, due to hard studying. About this time I was coming into womanhood, and the 'Prescription' built me up in fine shape, in just a short space of time. I took it again about three years ago, during expectancy, and it helped me wonderfully. My sickness was very slight and my baby was strong and healthy and has always been."—Mrs. Carl Guell, Jr., 7th Street.

STOMACH UPSET?
Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

If you have a bad taste in your mouth, tongue coated, appetite poor, lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, troubled with undigested foods, you should take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for a week—just, so you can eat what you like. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

PLAN HEAVY SPORT CARD FOR JACKIES

(By Associated Press.)
Great Lakes, Ill., Nov. 14.—Health and muscle building sports of all sorts promise to make the winter at the Great Lakes Naval Training station a period of recreation, which will be conducive to the physical perfection and fitness of approximately 17,000 young men averaging 19 years, who are being trained to fight sea battles.

In the athletic department, plans for indoor track, basketball, indoor baseball, swimming, boxing and wrestling are being made. The plans of Dr. J. H. Kaufman, who is in charge of athletics, every Jack will be extended the use of the gymnasium and other health developing facilities. In fact, it is probable that athletics will be compulsory in the daily routine of the enlisted men.

Back in the days when the enlisted personnel of the station was being increased daily by hundreds from all over the middle west, Captain W. A. Moffatt, consistent to place every man where he would be of the most benefit to the station, decided to have a card for the athletic office. The wisdom of this policy was shown in the summer months in baseball, boxing, wrestling and track, and this autumn in football.

The first work in November will see the final match in the station football league, after a series of competitions which commenced Oct. 15. The organization brought into play eight teams which represented various regiments on the station. It is estimated that 5,000 boys have profited physically as a result of their football training, which can be traced directly to the interest in the game worked up through the station league and the camp's representative eleven.

Basketball activities promise to bring more boys into the gymnasium than any two of the other sports combined. Speculation as to the strength of the "first" team of the station, which probably will be composed of the college-bred athletes, is being indulged in by the boys, but the station basketball league seems to attract more gossip than the representative five, which will be confined to a squad of ten or fifteen.

Boxing, which was introduced to Great Lakes last before the war by Gunnar Jack Kennedy, continues to be popular. During the summer months, the station's natural amphitheatre, but at the first call for steam heat the drill hall was adapted as the scene of boxing matches. Some of the officers have suggested boxing to their boys, but none has requested it, but none has made it compulsory.

Leo Flynn, night manager, has found out what it is to have the color line drawn. For since Kid Norfolk turned the pugilistic world topsy-turvy by beating Billy Mike in a 12-round decision bout few of the white heavyweights have consented to meet the new colored star. Until Norfolk outboxed and outgrew the sensational Mike there was no trouble in keeping Norfolk busy. Flynn had his colored star boxing every week or so, but now he is a different tale. None of the big fellows want his name, not even such men as Frank Moran, Carl Morris, Fred Fulton and Jim Coffey. Norfolk's victory over Mike shouldn't have been such a triumph, that as he had previously outboxed Gunboat Smith and had stopped Tom Cowler. He also owned a 20-round decision over Sam McKee, that victory giving him the heavyweight championship of Panama.

MANAGERIAL CHANGES NOW HOLD ATTENTION

(By International News.)

New York, Nov. 14.—Down the stretches of this winter there is bound to be a million throats arguing over who's going to be who when the rival managers in the two big leagues get going next season.

There are many openings in the grownup circuits, more than at any time for years. Jack Barry probably has played his last major league game for some time, owing to the fact that he is fastened in the navy. Miller Huggins, of course, has been transferred, and St. Louis needs a new leader; it is persistently, if doubtfully rumored that the Browns are looking for a new manager.

Picking a leader for the Cardinals will be the real popular sport for the indoor fans. Countless luminaries in the sport firmament already have been nominated for the job. Among them have been Ira Thomas, Jack Combs, Jack Miller, Branch Rickey and a half dozen more or less promising other men.

Jack Combs is through as a pitcher of parts, but he is still smart old Jack capable of leading a baseball club. Many things would be more surprising than the news that Combs had been sent to St. Louis to lead the National league club there. Hans Lobert also has been setting his eye on a manager's job, and there have been some rumors when Hans was near his objective.

Billy Evans, American league umpire, has a good story which he tells on himself. Billy is the proud father of a sticp-year-old hopeful who is nothing if not original. The other night after Little Bob had said his prayers and been tucked away between the sheets Billy and Mrs. Evans were sitting in the library reading when Bob chattered: "Daddy, I am terribly thirsty. Can't I have a drink?" Billy got up and started for the stairs. He happened to look up at the stairs. He was perched on the top stair. "Just pile back into bed sonny, I'll bring you a drink of water," Billy said. "Say, daddy, when you fetch me that drink, fool me, will you? Make it lemonade." "You're right, Bobby had lemonade. But then he can't be blamed for lemonade as it is almost as necessary to Billy Evans' life as are bread and butter."

Several Philadelphia boxers have come forward with an offer that is rather unusual. Johnny Tillman, Eddie McAndrews, Joe Welsh and Johnny Mealy have each agreed to give up 5 per cent of their ring earnings to the Red Cross as long as the war lasts, and they have each agreed to follow suit every boxer in the land agreed to contribute 5 per cent it is estimated that the total from this source would soon reach thousands of dollars.

Pete Rerman, one of our two bantam champions, doesn't appear very anxious to do any other fighting except the kind he gets in the ring. He is a kind of a fighter for exemption. It was drafted, and for exemption. He made a second claim on some other ground and this, too, was refused, but he was given permission to delay joining the United States army a while, so that he could fight one or twice and lay up some money. Pete fought and beat Frankie Burns the other night but before doing so he had married a New Orleans girl. Now he has filed a third exemption plea on the ground that he has a dependent wife.

Walter Powell, who was recently transferred from the position of athletic director at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, to similar work at Jacksonville, Fla., has been notified by the government not to go south. Instead he is to be athletic director at large for the entire country. Powell will probably be asked to act as athletic inspector at the various camps, going from one to the other.

Eddie Cicotte thinks well of John McGraw, for the New York manager went out of his way to tell Eddie what a great pitcher he is. In talking of it Eddie did not say it McGraw asked him how he would like to play in New York.

That's an odd situation with the New York Giants. Charley Herson was supposed to be in bad with his fellow players, yet as captain of the team was the man selected to receive the series money, and see to its distribution.
